Spring Clean Sweep Success

The Town of Lewisville's Beautification Committee hosted its annual Spring Clean Sweep in March collecting more than 63 bags of trash and hosting the largest group of volunteers to date. "I believe this was the largest ever in terms of the number of volunteers and the bags collected," said Committee member Genevieve Athens. "With the additional volunteers, we were able to add a new route, Vienna Dozier Road." The next Clean Sweep will be held this Fall.

From your Mayor Spring in Lewisville

Tree blossoms in pink, white and yellow. The emergence of tulips, jonquils and daffodils from their sleepy winter burrows. The blooming azaleas bringing fiery bursts of red, purple and pink to our town. And...the encroachment of clover, wild onions and dandelions into our yards.

Now, let me say that I'm a relatively tolerant person, but this year's crop of weeds has arrived with the vengeance of zombies. Not that I've experienced zombies first-hand but it seems like an appropriate analogy.

To me, dandelions are the most devious of all the lawn invaders. Seeming to appear almost overnight, then populating faster than rabbits on steroids. Their smiling yellow faces hide an invasive weed body that crowds out the grass we've been cultivating since last fall.

Dandelion seeds carried by the wind spread across my yard making containment impossible. I can almost hear them laughing at me trying to stalk them down with my hand-sprayer of weed killer.

I was lamenting my dandelion adversity to a friend whose yard is also awash with the pesky plant but who, unlike myself, seemed unconcerned about their intrusion.

How can you just sit there and watch this D (Dandelion) Day invasion, I asked him? Have you no decency sir? A little too dramatic, I agree.

His one-word answer to my allegation caused me pause. He smiled and said, "Bees."

It seems that dandelions are essential to help preserve the beleaguered honey bee which emerges starving in the early spring. Dandelions are rich in pollen and nectar and bloom earlier than most other spring flowers sustaining bees until the arrival of other flowering plants.

We're all familiar with the food chain, right? No bees ... no pollination ... no fruit and vegetables ... and oh my, no more wine.

Well, my friends, my perspective has changed considerably. I've begrudgingly accepted the fact that dandelions are, well, a fact of life - literally.

So now as I sit on our deck watching their little yellow faces popping up everywhere, I view them as just one more rite of spring.

Welcome dandelions. May I please have a glass of wine now?

And speaking of rites of spring, this month our parks and recreation committee kicks off what may be our best season ever of free events at the Square. From blue grass to "Bye-Bye Birdie," we have an event for everyone. I look forward to seeing you and your family.

As always, I welcome your comments.

Town Hall, Waste Management to Observe Memorial Day Holiday; Trash & Recycle on One-Day Delay

Lewisville Town Hall will be closed Monday, May 27 in observance of Memorial Day.

Waste Management will also be closed for Memorial Day. Trash and recycling pickup will be delayed one day beginning Monday, May 27.

Please have a safe and enjoyable Memorial Day Holiday!

Spring Bulky Item Pickup Scheduled for May 13

The next Bulky Item Pickup event will be held Monday, May 13. Those residents wishing to participate in the pickup should have all acceptable bulky items curbside by 7 a.m.

Bulky item collection events are held a few times per year and provide Lewisville residents an easy and convenient way to dispose of unwanted, large items that would otherwise need to be taken to the landfill. Town Hall has received recent calls about the event, so Town staff is anticipating high participation from Lewisville residents.

"We want to make sure our residents are informed as to what is considered a bulky item. This event is intended for disposal of items too large to fit within a trash cart - items such as large pieces of furniture, carpet, mattresses, boxsprings and white goods," said Town Manager Hank Perkins. "We are going to provide information in the newsletter, Channel 6, our website and Facebook to give everyone an opportunity to understand what is acceptable for bulky item collection. Residents may also call Town Hall if they have additional questions or concerns," said Perkins. The "rule of thumb" is to avoid placing bags of trash, televisions, cardboard boxes, lumber scraps, clothing, books, construction debris and other prohibited items out for the collection. If Waste Management sees a contaminated collection pile, the site will not be serviced.

Perkins said the collection times are a busy one for staff because of all the calls as to what is allowed, reports of individual homes missed and complaints about people leaving unacceptable items at the curb long after the event has ended.

Guidelines for what is accepted and what is prohibited can also be found on the Lewisville website, www.lewisvillenc.net, on Channel 6. Residents may contact Town Hall at 336-945-5558 to obtain further information or visit the Town's website at lewisvillenc.net.
